New requirements for identification, recall and manuals.

JP Group A/S Automotive imports and produces automotive spare parts that are intended for use as originally designed and should not be modified for alternative purposes.

The parts are intended to be installed by a professional. Our parts are delivered in a box marked with our website information where manuals can be located for parts that require further information for the professional. All items are marked online with a warning that they are intended for professionally skilled individuals.

Our label on the box is marked with a batch number that allow us to recall through our distributors.

NEW LABEL:

JP Group A/S Automotive have had a limited number of recalls through our 50 years on the automotive aftermarket as we correspond our quality to the OE version.

We are in process of changing our boxes and bags and as the boxes change to a version without our website, our labels will contain the website information where our information for each item is available along with contact information.
